Sherlock Holmes and the Case of the Curly Haired Company – page 4

- [Holmes had been reflecting on Sherlock's famed ability to make deductions by just looking at them]

It really seemed that Sherlock knew what Holmes was thinking, straight away he asked the curly-haired man:

“Mr Xie, you are the boss of a tea-house, aren't you? Previously you've worked in a restaurant? Furthermore, haven't you been to Hai Nan?”

“How can you know? I haven't told you!”, the curly-haired man didn't expect that Sherlock would know these matters.

Sherlock immediately smiled, said to him,

“On your body is the scent of tea. If you didn't spend every day in a tea-house, you couldn't have this type of scent. Look at your left hand. On it there are some cuts. Only people who usually use a knife have these types of cuts. Furthermore, I've been to Hai Nan. That thing on your hand, [a ring?] can only be got in Hai Nan.”
