生词

- 再见 (again – to see)
- 又 you4 = again
- So what's the difference?
- We use再 when we are talking about a repetition in the future (something will happen again – eg see each other)
- We use又 for other times – eg 我看了又看了 I watched it and watched it again
- 再 Don't mix up with 在 – even though pronounced the same
- In general, what time do you get up? 一般来说, 你几点起床?

作业

Using language from the lesson and from the sentences on page 4 above, translate the following into Chinese:

I will make an appointment with (ie arrange to meet) my classmate

The weather in Beijing will be a bit colder

A long time ago they lived in Hong Kong

He prefers green tea

Her office is a long way from here

These are important matters

Three years ago they worked near the station

Have a listen to this music

She is rich.
