Lesson review - 14th Jan 2016

Wǒ = I

Shì = am   (the verb 'to be')

Nǐ hǎo!

you ↗   ↖ good

{ = hello!

Nǐ hǎo ma?

How are you?

Wǒ hěn hǎo, xiè xie — Thanks

very

I'm fine thanks

The marks over some vowels are called "tone ma...
They're very helpful as they show the rise/fall (tone... of your voice. There are 4 tones in Mandarin (plus a neutral tone).

Pīnyīn is a way of writing Chinese with our alpha...
Chinese characters represent meaning - not sound.
Here are the characters for numbers one → four:

一 二 三 四

Lesson review — 14th Jan 2016

Wǒ = I

Shì = am   (the verb 'to be')

Nǐ hǎo!

you ↗   ↖ good

= hello!

Nǐ hǎo ma? ← Question Mark

How are you?

Wǒ hěn hǎo, xiè xie ← Thanks

very ↗

I'm fine thanks

The marks over some vowels are called "tone ma[rks]"
They're very helpful as they show the rise / fall (tone)
of your voice. There are 4 tones in Mandarin (plus a neutral tone).

Pīnyīn is a way of writing Chinese with our alpha[bet]
Chinese characters represent meaning — not sound.
Here are the characters for numbers one → four :

一 二 三 四